Lower Columbia College Hires New Head Softball Coach

Traci Fuller has been selected to take over as the new head softball coach at Lower Columbia College. Fuller is a former Oregon State University player who has been the head coach at Skyview High School in Vancouver for the past four seasons.

“We are thrilled that Traci has accepted the challenge to take over our softball powerhouse”, said athletic director Kirc Roland. “Traci is looking to continue the championship caliber expectations that future Hall-of-Famer Tim Mackin built here at LCC.”

Fuller hails from Prairie High School where she was an outstanding talent and earned a scholarship at Oregon State. As Traci Feldt, she played four seasons for OSU coach Kirk Walker, who highly endorsed her application.

“Getting the LCC job is a great honor”, said Fuller. “Leaving the outstanding girls at Skyview is difficult, but this is the top job in the NWAACC and I’m looking forward to building on the success at LCC.”

Fuller will also serve as an education planner at LCC where she will assist students during their educational path. “I have nothing but fond memories of my college experience at Oregon State and as an assistant at Portland State, so I’m excited to help students reach their goals.”

Fuller led Skyview to the WIAA 4A Final Four last season and was named the GSHL 4A Coach of the Year. “Traci has great knowledge of Southwest Washington area softball”, said Roland. “She also has the respect of her peers and players. She’ll be a great representative of LCC.”
